Adventure Travel Today

At AdventureWomen, we want everyone to understand that our excursions are adventure travel vacations and not "tours." We define "adventure travel" as travel in which one actively participates, as opposed to a "tour," in which one is more or less a passive observer. AdventureWomen designs and organizes vacations all over the world for women who want to experience an active, out of the ordinary vacation, and meet new friends. Most of all, we want our trips to be fun!

good-natured realist and have a sense of humor! Adventure vacations, by nature, require that participants be self-sufficient, flexible, and able to accept situations as they exist, and not just as they would have preferred or expected them to exist. The constraints of scheduled group traveling also necessitate that each of us be understanding of and sensitive to others. Being on time is important, and contributes to the congeniality, success and well-being of both individuals and the group!

In this spirit, the successful adventure traveler should be a

Bogotá to Villa de Leyva

Villa de Leyva is one of the few towns in Colombia to have preserved much of its original colonial style and architecture. The streets and large central square are paved with cobblestones, and many buildings date from the 16th century. The valley in which Villa de Leyva sits is rich in fossils, and many fossils were used as decoration in the original buildings in the area.

La Candelaria Walk in the heart of old, historic Bogotá, known as La Candelaria, which is home to a great number of restored 300-year old homes and public buildings. Visit Plaza Bolivar, the San Francisco Church, the lively pedestrian street “Calle 11” bursting with local restaurants (some family-owned for eight generations), and perhaps the 17th-century Santa Clara Convent.

The Gold Museum Visit the famous Gold Museum, which houses over 33,000 gold pieces from Colombia’s most relevant pre-Hispanic cultures. Learn about how they used gold in political and social occasions, their metallurgical techniques, and as expressions of their Cosmo vision, myths, and offerings.

Lunch For lunch you will try a special menu, including the best of the “santafereña” gastronomy, local from Bogotá, including the famous Ajiaco.

Drive to Villa de Leyva After lunch, drive about four hours to the lovely colonial town of Villa de Leyva, passing lush, green cattle farms and pastoral scenes. Stop briefly at Boyaca Bridge, site of the decisive battle of August 7, 1819, that secured independence for Colombia from the Spanish monarchy. Enjoy dinner this evening in the spacious Plaza de Armas and its beautifully lit Cathedral.

DAY 3

Sunday
10/14/18

Villa de Leyva

Villa de Leyva was founded on June 12, 1572 by Hernan Suarez de Villalobos and named after the first president of the New Kingdom of Granada, Andrés Díaz Venero de Leyva. Villa de Leyva is known as one of the finest colonial towns in Colombia, and was declared a National Monument on December 17, 1954 to preserve its architecture. It is located in a high altitude valley at 7,050 feet, which was once covered by sea, leaving fossil remains from the Mesozoic era, from 250 to 65 million years ago.

Hike in Iguaque National Park

Drive north for about 45 minutes to Iguaque National Park. Hike through Andean cloud forest, a unique ecosystem found in only 28% percent of the world. Over 1,700 species of birds are found in Colombia; look for some of the more exotic ones, including the Toucan barbette, mountain tanagers, and colorful hummingbirds. You will see a variety of cloud forest plants, such as giant tree ferns, large bromeliads, aricacia owers, various types of orchids, and endemic Andean bamboo.

Lunch and Cooking Class

Return to Villa de Leyva for lunch at El Mercado Nacional. Sample a variety of Colombian dishes. The restaurant has a traditional bakery, and you can learn about local veggies, condiments and spices to prepare for your afternoon cooking class at Verde Olivo Culinary School.

Monday
10/15/18

Villa de Leyva to Barichara

UNESCO declared this well-preserved colonial town a World Heritage Site in 1978, and some consider it the loveliest colonial town in Colombia. When you walk through Barichara's peaceful cobblestone streets, whitewashed buildings, and red-tiled roofs, there is a feeling of going back in time, maintaining the ambiance of the colonial era.

El Fossil Museum

After breakfast, visit El Fossil Museum, which hosts the second-largest kronosaurus discovery in the world, a prehistoric aquatic lizard from the Mesozoic Era.

Drive to Barichara

Drive through pastoral green countryside, cattle farms, and small family homes to Barichara. After passing the steep canyon walls and cloud forest, arrive in the region called Santander, known as the adventure capital of Colombia. Enjoy lunch at a local restaurant along the way. The stunningly well-conserved colonial town of Barichara, known for its preservation of 18th-century homes and public buildings welcomes you this afternoon.

Bike Into Town

Before you arrive in Barichara, get off the beaten path. Ride on dual suspension mountain bikes down from Alto de las Antenas into the Village of Barichara. As you bike into town, make sure to find the best spot for a photo in the main plaza. End your ride at the "Mirador de Barichara", a stunning viewpoint of the Suarez Canyon for a celebratory toast.

Paper Factory

Visit a family-run paper factory to learn about the papermaking process from plant extraction to the finished product.

DAY 5

Tuesday
10/16/18

Barichara

On the one hand, calm and silence are the essence of Barichara, a town with cobblestone streets that belongs to the Colombian People's Heritage Network and has a warm, dry climate. On the other hand, this is an excellent base from which to bike, hike, and whitewater raft.

Hike the Royal Road of Guane

Hike on the famous 18th-century cobblestone Royal Road this morning, starting near your hotel in Barichara, and ending at the small village of Guane. This trail is originally called "Camino Suamuxi" in the Chibcha language of the indigenous Muisca people that lived in this region during pre-Hispanic times. Your three-hour hike on this excellent old road is a birdwatcher's delight. Begin in bosque seco (dry forest), and hopefully see parakeets, tanagers, smooth-billed anis, sparrows, finches, vermilion-catchers, red-capped cardinals, and mot mots. Over the hike, you will descend about 1,000 feet to Guane, a lovely and quaint rural town. Enjoy lunch in Guane.

Terrarium Creative Organization

After lunch, you will meet Santiago Rivera, a local engineer who works to rescue, preserve, and promote traditional architectural techniques that are no longer practiced or are in danger of disappearing. With his colleagues at the newly founded Terrarium Creative Organization, Santiago designs and promotes the architectural cultural patrimony of the region, designing ecologically efficient homes for the upper-middle-class, using local materials and techniques. Enjoy a hands-on workshop, trying your best to recreate the tapia pisada, bahareque, and mud adobe brick walls.

Barichara to Mesa de los Santos

Mesa de los Santos overlooks the Chicamocha canyon. This area is known for its coffee plantations and unique bird life. At a fairly high elevation, it gets quite cool here at night.

Hike the Caminos Reales

Drive on a windy road to Parque Nacional del Chicamocha and the Chicamocha Canyon, enjoying a spectacular view of cliff walls and the Rio Chicamocha down below. Hike partly on the caminos reales that were part of a network connecting Santander to the coast, and eventually to outer regions, such as Venezuela.

Whitewater Rafting

Experience one of the top activities in Santander: whitewater rafting. After a safety briefing, set off down the river into the Class III rapids. Your professional rafting guides will make this a safe yet exhilarating experience. Go AdventureWomen!

DAY 7

Thursday
10/18/18

Mesa de los Santos to Tayrona National Park

Tayrona National Park was created in 1964 on the Caribbean Coast in the north of Colombia. It is a naturally beautiful park, but is also culturally important. In the 6th and 7th centuries, the coast and the mountains of the park were inhabited by the famous Tayrona tribe. Their direct descendants still live in these areas and they maintain many of their traditions.

Walk the Coffee Plantation

Start your morning with a two-hour walking tour of the coffee hacienda. Of the 990 acres, about 780 are dedicated to coffee production. The organic shade-grown coffee includes 72 varieties of the 320 in existence. End your coffee tour with barista Jose Antonio Martinez, a 30-year veteran coffee-tasting expert. Jose will teach you about coffee fragrances, and help you discern between sweet, salty, bitter, and smooth flavors.

Tayrona National Park

The foothills of the Sierra Nevada de Santa Marta, the highest coastal mountain in the world, plunge into the sea like the fingers of a gigantic hand forming beautiful bays and coves. The Park offers magnificent beaches and the relaxing panorama of an intensely blue sea.

Hike to Pueblito Chairama

Drive to the entrance of Tayrona National Park to start your hike. The first half of the hike is a three-and-a-half to four hour excursion of Tayrona's famous stunning beaches. This undulating section has pristine blue water coves and cliffs lined with vivid green wooded areas, sometimes along the beach. Pass by the beaches of Canaveral, Piscinita, Arrecife, and La Piscina, and finish our mid-day hike at Cabo San Juan.

After a refreshing drink, leave the beach and begin a steep, challenging uphill climb of 900 feet on an ancient stone-paved road through a beautiful cloud forest, with monkeys and exotic birds and bird calls. After two hours uphill, you will be rewarded with the extensive Tayrona ruins called "El Pueblito," with an incredibly vast system of stone terraces, aqueducts, and round platforms where round stone homes were built. On this latter section of the hike you may see some Kogis, the indigenous group still living in this area, known for their white woven clothing and caps. After exploring this extensive ruin site, continue up another 600 feet. Return by car to your hotel.

DAY 9

Saturday
10/20/18

Tayrona National Park to Cartagena

The city of Cartagena is a major port founded in 1533, located on the northern coast of Colombia in the Caribbean Coast Region. The port, the fortresses, and the group of monuments of Cartagena were selected in 1984 by UNESCO as significant to the heritage of the world, having the most extensive fortifications in South America. A system of zones divides the city into three neighborhoods: San Sebastian and Santa Catalina with the cathedral and many palaces where the wealthy lived and the main government buildings functioned; San Diego or Santo Toribio, where merchants and the middle class lived; and Getsemani, the suburban popular quarters.

Drive to Cartagena

Drive on one of Colombia's main coastal roads for about four hours to Cartagena de Indias, a city that combines within its walls centuries of history and culture. The landing of thousands of slaves from West Africa and migrations in the late 19th century make this a very diverse region.

Lunch

Stop halfway to Cartagena at the city of Barranquilla and enjoy Caribbean fare for lunch at the restaurant La Cueva. La Cueva is known as the place where Gabriel García Márquez began writing One Hundred Years of Solitude.

Street Food in Cartagena

Walk through "Seven Paradises" of street food, unnoticed by tourists and worshipped by locals. Tempt yourself at every stop with the original recipes that inspire the new Colombian cuisine, and enjoy the product of this unhurried life.

Cartagena

Founded in 1533, the vast riches plundered by Spanish colonists turned the piedra corralina (the coral stone) into the most breathtaking city in the New World. 470 years later, Cartagena's colonial architecture provides a stunning backdrop to one of the most culturally vibrant cities in the Americas. There's more to the city than just the picturesque streets. Each corner of "La Heroica," as the city became known for its rich history of resistance and rebellion, hides a cultural treasure ready to be discovered.

San Felipe Fortress

The fortress of San Felipe de Barajas is a masterpiece of architecture and military engineering. It was constructed by the Spaniards to defend the city during the times of the corsairs.

The Magical Realism Foodie Experience

The literary foodie experience called the "Gabriel García Márquez Menu" is a Cartagena gastronomic tour serving dishes and drinks consumed by the characters of Gabriel García Márquez's novels, praising the traditional cuisine of this Caribbean town.
